DRAMATIST IS COUSIN OF MRS. W. J. COOPER

Seattle.—Miss Grace Vrooman, a teacher in the public schools at Juneau, Alaska, is at the exposition as the special representative of the Women's Auxiliary of that city. The Juneau schools were awarded the first prize in the contest among the schools of the Northland, and Miss Vrooman was chosen by the Women's Auxiliary as the most popular teacher. She will assist Mrs. Mary E. Hart, in charge of the women's, educational and art work in the Alaska building at the fair.

Miss Vrooman has taught school at Juneau for the last five years. At the close of the school year in June her pupils produced George Ade's "Slim Princess" from a dramatization by Miss Vrooman. "The Slim Princess" is one of the most popular of Ade's later books and had not been previously dramatized. Miss Vrooman wrote Mr. Ade for permission to use the book as the basis of a comedy to be produced on a more extensive scale. The author replied that he had already undertaken to arrange the material for a comic opera to be produced next year, but granted the permission for the dramatization to be used locally at Juneau.

Miss Vrooman has also dramatized Kate Douglas Wiggin's book, "Rebecca of Sunny Brook Farm."

Miss Vrooman is a cousin of Mrs. Will J. Cooper, hostess of the Hawaiian building. She will remain in Seattle for a month.
